Headline: ...And Red Storm Stables is in the lead with the launch of their new website

Baldwin, NY---March 1, 2005---Web N Beyond, a full-service design and marketing firm, has launched the newly designed website for Red Storm Stables.

Since Thoroughbred horse racing management is a very specific industry, Webnbeyond designed the site for both seasoned investors and individuals just starting, and also current investors and potential investors. The goal was to provide enough information for all the target groups in a cohesive and user-friendly manner.

Using the Red Storm Stables team colors, the Webnbeyond designers created a unique and eye-catching design that is identifiable to Red Storm and appeals to their target audience. The site features photos and information on new horses and the latest industry news.

"This was a very unique project to work on," said Jason Guida, New Business Development. "It was interesting to find different ways to convey information to investors on very different levels. I think our team worked hard together to create a great informational site for Red Storm Stables."
